*What is the difference between FULL color and SPOT color? FULL color prints in CMYK (cyan, yellow, magenta and black) colors. The colors overlap each other to achieve the full color spectrum. To print any multicolor image, the same 4 inks are used. This will closely match what you are looking for, but if you want exact colors, you should use SPOT color. Spot colors are pre-mixed inks. They are applied only to the area assigned for each particular color. We have a limit of 3 individual color inks. To find specific color numbers (referred to as PANTONE, or PMS color matching), visit this free site: <https://www.pantone.com/color-finder>. We would be glad to assist you in determining which color option works best for you.
